EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

CrowdStrike is a global cybersecurity leader that provides advanced cloud-native platform for protecting endpoints, cloud workloads, identities, and data. The company is headquartered in Austin, Texas, and was founded in 2011 to reinvent security for the cloud era. CrowdStrike's mission is to protect its customers from breaches, and it offers a range of products and services to achieve this goal. The company has a strong leadership team and is committed to sustainability and social responsibility.

MARKET POSITIONING

Enterprise, Mid-market, and Small to Medium-sized Businesses (SMBs) in various industries, including healthcare, finance, and government. CrowdStrike's products and services are designed to protect these organizations from advanced threats and targeted attacks, and to provide them with the visibility and control they need to secure their endpoints, cloud workloads, identities, and data.

BUSINESS MODEL

CrowdStrike's business model is based on a subscription-based service, where customers pay a monthly or annual fee to use its products and services. The company offers a range of pricing plans, including a free trial, to fit the needs of different customers. CrowdStrike also generates revenue through the sale of its products and services to channel partners and service providers, who then resell them to their customers.

KEY OBSERVATIONS

- CrowdStrike has been recognized as a leader in the endpoint protection market by Gartner and other industry analysts.
- The company has a strong commitment to sustainability and social responsibility, and has published a sustainability report outlining its goals and progress.
- CrowdStrike has a large and experienced leadership team, with a mix of technical and business expertise.
- The company has a strong partner ecosystem, with partnerships with major technology companies such as Microsoft and AWS.
